CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

The use of preventive, integrative, and lifestyle approaches has greatly expanded during the last decade, along with the different types of therapies, patient populations, and conditions treated. As these therapies become more integrated into medicine, the volume of different types of therapy and their clinical profiles combine to create gaps among practitioners and patients regarding their clinical efficacy and optimal use in practice.

Our 18th Annual Fall Conference on Integrative Medicine in Women's Health will focus on discussing the most recent data on these approaches, analyzing their impact, and assessing their best use in clinical practice.

This conference will also focus on evidence-based discussions by experts in preventive and integrative medicine. The goal is to provide learners with the knowledge to understand the benefits and risks of these treatment options and how to integrate them into patient-specific management plans, which will ultimately translate into improved patient outcomes.

Topics for this year's conference have been selected based on the educational needs determined from the identified professional practice gaps. The gaps were derived from a variety of sources including evaluations and outcomes data from past participants; clinical expert input; Symposia Medicus' online survey; and other medical and nursing data.

Conference format will include didactic lectures, smaller group breakout and interactive sessions, case studies, and question and answer sessions.

An outstanding faculty has been assembled for this conference. Each member was selected based on their individual area of expertise and ability to communicate current, evidence-based, and practical information to participants.

You are sure to enjoy our 18th Annual Fall Conference on Integrative Medicine in Women's Health while sharing ideas and experiences with colleagues from across the country in the beautiful setting of Ojai, California.

CONFERENCE LOCATION

The city of Ojai is situated in a small east-west valley, north of Ventura and east of Santa Barbara, approximately 12 miles inland from the Pacific Ocean coast. Since Ojai is lined up with an east-west mountain range, it is one of the few towns in the world to have a “Pink Moment” occur as the sun is setting. The fading sunlight creates a brilliant shade of pink for several minutes on the Topatopa Bluffs, over 6,000 feet above sea level at the east end of the Ojai Valley. It is a rare and magical moment that thousands of visitors come to Ojai annually to see.

Nestled in the hills of Southern California, the Ojai Valley Inn & Spa is a premier luxury resort that features an award winning on-site spa and golf course. First awarded the coveted Five Diamond Award for excellence in the hospitality industry in 2006, the resort continues to achieve this distinguished accolade annually. Throughout the years, the Ojai Valley Inn & Spa has retained its sense of place, staying true to the people who first built it, while hosting many celebrities, musicians, dignitaries, and politicians. Amid an unsurpassed natural landscape with diverse appeal to families, couples, and multi-generational guests, the Inn remains one of the finest resorts in North America.

At the resort, embrace the creative side of life at the Artist Cottage & Apothecary, discover your inner chi in the Mind & Body Fitness Studio, or explore the best of Ojai via bike or on foot. Or, there is always the option of just doing nothing at all! With four delightful pool experiences, from the family-friendly Pixie Pool full of excitement and pool games, to the exclusive adult’s only Indigo Pool & Bar that offers a luxurious environment of pure relaxation, there is plenty of room to simply unwind.

Whatever your pleasure, you’ll be sure to find it in Ojai, California, at our 18th Annual Fall Conference on Integrative Medicine in Women’s Health.
